Since 2014, the launch of the Saving Our Cinderellas program, with Co-Founder, actress and singer, Keke Palmer in Rodgers & Hammerstein's, Broadway Musical, Cinderella; the program has involved many young powerful voices within the walls of Hollywood, such as Yara Shahidi, of Black'ish, Eris Baker of This is Us, Talitha Bateman from latest film, GeoStorm and Kyla-Drew from Nickelodeon's Nicky, Ricky, Dicky & Dawn.

For the summer of 2018, at the acclaimed Ron Clark Academy, Saving Our Daughters (SOD) is excited and eager to welcome MasterChef Junior Winner Season 5, Jasmine Stewart, who will become the first Jr. Chef “Celebrity Godparent” to join with the list of young actresses as a positive mentor.

The Jr. Chef Culinary Arts Program under the Cinderellas curriculum, was started by Food Network's, Chef TreGaye, in 2017, as the RCA girls learned how to create original and gourmet recipes and how to properly prepare appetizers, entrees and desserts. The curriculum is like a traditional cooking class.

After winning Season 5 of MasterChef Junior on FOX in January of 2017, Jasmine at only 13 years of age, will empower her peers through culinary arts to help promote SOD's mission to deter bullying; while increasing self-esteem. Also, for this summer culinary class, Saving Our Daughters will be sponsoring the MasterChef Junior Cookbook for all of the RCA Cinderellas. WOW!! Can't wait for this summer!!

The excitement does not stop there, on April 22nd at 5PM, Jasmine will be present at the Peach & The Porkchop in Roswell for a meal and meet & greet. She will create a special three course prix fixe menu for patrons to purchase and all proceeds will go to Saving Our Daughters! About Jasmine Stewart, MasterChef Junior Winner, Season 5

Jasmine Stewart is thirteen years old and currently in the seventh grade, at the Ron Clark Academy (RCA) — though, you probably know her best for winning Season 5 of MasterChef Junior on FOX! Her parents said she started showing a passion for cooking as early as three years old, but she can assure you, she's perfected her skills since then - tapping into her creative side, while always challenging herself to take recipes to the next level. And while she loves cooking in general, her specialties are savory dishes and of course, sweet treats. When she's not in the kitchen, you can find her cheering for RCA, reading, writing, and turning any room into her personal dance floor.

Looking down the road, she sees herself becoming a well-known actress and hosting her own cooking show to showcase her recipes with the world!

Spend the summer with Jasmine at Camp MasterChef. She will be in Rabun-Gap, GA. Camp MasterChef will include special competitions, hands-on cooking lessons, outdoor sports activities, interactive challenges and more. For more information, visit Camp MasterChef.
